About OnMedics

OnMedics is the trading name of Ryan Jones, an independent freelance medic providing professional medical cover across the UK. When you book OnMedics, you deal directly with me from the initial enquiry through to the event itself. There are no agency layers, changing points of contact or unfamiliar personnel arriving on the day.

I began freelance medical practice in 2023 and established OnMedics in 2024 to provide clients with a direct, flexible and professional way to source medical support for events, productions, motorsport and private requirements.

Core Services

Event Medical Services

I provide professional medical cover for festivals, sporting events, competitions, entertainment venues, community events and private functions.

Film & TV Medical Services

On-set and location medical support for Film & TV productions, alongside practical medical input where clinical realism, equipment use or continuity is important.

Motorsport Medical Services

I provide medical support for motorsport environments where rapid assessment, effective communication and dynamic risk management are essential.

Private & Executive Medical Services

Discreet medical provision for private functions, invitation-only events, executive environments and clients requiring a low-profile medical presence.

Why OnMedics?
